DISTRICT No. 7
Bayview 6101

A big pile of magazines were turned in this week to the USO from Mrs. Mernie Maiser, Sector leader of "C". We received a number of Life and Look magazines together with several other kinds. Mrs. Manning of Sector "C" also contributed some magazines. Mrs. Maiser also turned in for her Sector the following articles: Two dozen useable Christmas tree ornaments and other tree trimmings, burnt out electric bulbs and a number of tin-can lids. It is remarkable how these tin-can lids have been made into useful, unbreakable Christmas tree ornaments by the USO Center work-shop in the Medico-Dental building. If you have some spare time and wish to help, volunteers are still needed at this work-shop, even if it is only an hour. Don't put it off, go there as soon as you can, as they need help in getting all these things prepared for Christmas.

From Mrs. Charles Holler of Coronado Ave., we received a box of 32 beautiful Christmas cards and some magazines for use of the men at the hospital.

From Mrs. Robert Woker of Sector "H", we received some more Life and Look magazines. Also turned in from Sector "H" were a number of tin-can lids and other magazines.

Mrs. Kettenhoffen of Sector "A" reports that she has turned in two filled Christmas boxes to the Ocean Beach school. Also received from her were two dozen wash-cloths for use in filling other Christmas boxes.

Miss White, School secretary, advises me that other Christmas boxes have been turned in at the school, from where they will be collected and taken to the various hospitals.

The monthly meeting of the Citizens' committee and senior hostesses will be held Monday evening, Nov. 27 at 7:30.

A ping jong and pool tournament was held Saturday evening, with Joe Breit winning the ping pong finals and Henry Lovald the singles in the pool and Earl Shaw and Kennit Schwab the doubles.

Small Christmas packages, something costing not over 50 cents for the Christmas Eve party are urgently requested for the servicemen. This is something in which all the citizens of Ocean Beach can contribute towards helping the boys have a real Christmas away from home, so bring in your packages as early as possible.

Mrs. Milton, Canteen hostess chairman, would like some more volunteers for the Canteen. Any of the Ocean Beach ladies having spare time in the evenings are invited to help. We know once you join the staff, you will enjoy the work.

An old-fashioned dance will be on the schedule for Saturday night, Nov. 25, ending the Thanksgiving week.

Pointers Close Season With Win Over Sweetwater

Pt. Loma high school football team closed the 1944 season Friday afternoon with a 13-to-8 victory over the Sweetwater high school eleven. The game, played on Ross field, was hard-fought from start to finish and the outcome was in doubt right up to the closing whistle. In fact, the last few minutes of the game were the most exciting of all as the ball changed hands several times.

Tom Jones passed to Medina for the first counter in the opening period, giving the Pointers the lead which they never relinquished. Tom Wilson added the extra point. Sweetwater scored a safety in the second period when Jones, in attempting an end run, was caught behind his goal line.

The Pointers scored their second touchdown in the third period when Jones flipped a 12-yard pass to Ronnie Young. Try for extra point failed. The touchdown followed a march down the field from the Pt. Loma 4-yard line.

Sweetwater's touchdown also was scored as a result of a forward pass, one of 40 yards by "Buster" Johnson to Jerry Oliver, advancing the ball to the Pointers 10-yard line. From here Bill Lake went over two plays later.

Pointers Finish Second

Coach Maxwell's Pointers, as result of the victory over Sweetwater, finished second in the Victory league race for this season. San Diego High easily won top honors, having been in a class by themselves practically all season. They trounced Hoover night 72 to 0 before a crowd of High in Balboa stadium Friday 13,000. Coronado and Grossmont played a scoreless tie Friday.

The San Diego Hillers had only six points scored against them all season, and have amassed a total of 251 points in six games, an average of better than 40 points to the game.

Pt. Loma's Pointers won four games and lost two, scored 67 points and had 81 points scored against them. Coronado finished in third place, with 58 points scored against them. La Jolla High finished fourth, Hoover fifth and Grossmont in last place.

At Least Six Killed In Plane Crash Here

Plane Believed to be Four Engine Bomber Crashes in Plumosa Park, Ocean Beach

At least six men, all believed to have been civilians, were killed instantly in the crash of what is believed to have been the Navy version of the B-24 four-engine bomber in the Plumosa park section of the Ocean Beach area about 12:30 Wednesday noon. Estimates of the number of men in the plane are as high as 10. None of the crew was alive following the crash, which happened about 1500 feet northwest of the end of Lytton st. Investigating firemen reported that the plane hurtled into the canyon and came to rest at the bottom of the canyon beyond Azalea and Wisteria streets.

Nearby spectators expressed the opinion that the plane crashed when one wing crumpled and that the gas tank exploded as the plane hit the ground. Engines of the plane were thrown out on the hill and parts of the wreck were scattered over an area of 300 square feet, Ocean Beach firemen estimated. They reported that all of the plane burned except the tail and the end of the fuselage. Crew from the Ocean Beach fire station responding to the call, and who assisted in putting out the fire at the wreck, included Lt. Wm. Hillman and Arthur Derrick, Winton Hancock and R. E. Hall. Two other fire engines from nearby stations made the run to the scene.

A crowd estimated at not less than 1500 rushed to the scene and were held back by guards from the Navy and Coast Guard. Many of them saw the craft start its death plunge.

A group of nurses and several ambulances were on the scene in a jiffy and at last reports at the time of going to press six bodies, all burned severely, were taken from the wreck.

Convair officials rushed to the scene when it was learned that at least two of the dead were from their company. Names of the dead were not available at the time of going to press Wednesday night.

Unofficial reports were that the plane was new and that it had taken off from Lindberg field, heading northwest, and was on its first check-up test flight.

Kiwanis Speaker Predicts Long War With Japan

"Don't forget that we are up against a mean, bitter enemy and this war with Japan is going to last a long time," Dr. J. S. McSparran of Pasadena, who spent 25 years in Japan, told the Ocean Beach Kiwanis club at this week's meeting, held Tuesday evening in the Women's clubhouse. Dr. McSparran was in Japan when the war broke out December 7, 1941, and was a prisoner of the Japs until the next summer when he was released and was one of the prisoners released on the first sailing of the exchange ship Gripsholm to the United States. He told of hardships he had endured in his prison, where he spent six months and nine days. He even had been beaten three times, he said.

The Jap court that finally released him told him to carry back to the president of the United States the message that "we are prepared to carry on this war 100 years if necessary. We want the Americans to know that we are determined to win this war."

Dr. McSparran, who went to Japan in 1917, spoke on "Japan as I Know It." Other highlights of his address were:

"The Japs made a lot of money on World War I. Japan escaped the depression that followed that war.

"One of the greatest blunders of diplomacy at the Treaty of Versailles was for the Allies to recognize Japan as one of the five great powers of the world.

"How little we understood Japan, the nation that is our principal enemy today. We made the great error of not taking Japan seriously.

"The Japs had been feverishly preparing for war, especially since 1931. Starting that year their war factories were operated 24 hours a day. While many thought that likely they were preparing to fight Russia, that was just a ruse to throw the United States and Britain off guard.

"I believe we are up against a long and costly struggle before we can clear the Japs out of the Philippines. I look for them to sue for peace when we take over these islands.

"Peace with Japan in some ways will be a bigger problem than war. I believe it would be the height of folly to govern Japan by force after the war."

The speaker was introduced by Forest Whedon, program chairman for the evening.

Visitors included Roy Hammond, an OPA official, a guest of John E. Loftus; Earl Andreen of La Jolla, president-elect of the La Jolla Kiwanis club; and Cecil Hibbard, yeoman second class, a guest of his brother-in-law, Dr. W. B. Oster.

Dr. Alfred Sand will be the speaker at next week's meeting of the club, with Lee Woodley the program chairman.

Enrollment At Private School Up To Capacity

Enrollment at the Warren-Walker private school, at 4605 Point Loma Ave., is up to the capacity of 120 this school year, reports the director, Nellie L. Walker, the 120 representing an increase of about 20 from the total enrollment at the close of last year. "And we have a waiting list of children," the director stated Friday.

Back on the staff of teachers this year are six of the seven, the seventh being Mrs. Mildred Redenbo of Sioux City, Iowa. The six, all of whom taught in the school last year, are Mesdames Kathleen Schneider, Frances Curry, Lorline Arnott, Delia H. Reinbold, Irene Thomas and Mayme Rye.

The school follows the same schedule as the public schools and is in session five days a week. About half of the students are from Ocean Beach, Director Walker estimated Friday. The pupils range in age from 2½ years up to and including those in the eighth grade. All the grades up to high school are taught in the local institution, which is now in its 12th year. "We stress individualized teaching," says the director.

THANKSGIVING

Once again the Thanksgiving season is with us, and we pause to contemplate the good of the past year.

In some homes, the giving of thanks may not seem easy. Loved ones are scattered over the globe facing the perils and hardships of war. Some have already made the supreme sacrifice.

At times we may feel discouraged, overwhelmed with the problems of living. Even in the United States, war conditions are trying. From a distance we watch a world conflagration rage on, knowing that the staggering complexities of peace will follow it. Probably never in human history was the world so weighted with the baggage of fear, hate and uncertainty.

Yet, there is much to be grateful for. We have seen the Allied armies break the yoke of Nazi tyranny in France, Belgium and the Balkans. The liberation of the Philippines is under way.

America, herself, has been blessed. None of the battles has been fought on our land. Our cities and fields have not been scarred by enemy bombs. Our citizens have not been thrust into concentration camps, nor our churches closed, nor our schools given over to fascist teachings.

In spite of restrictions, we are well fed and clothed. In fact, the nation is experiencing a material prosperity never before approached. But our thanks are not primarily for material abundance. They are for spiritual wealth, expressed in the magnificent courage and unselfish devotion to the right displayed by hard-fighting, peace-loving peoples the world over.

Beyond even this, however, our hearts should reach out above persons and things in thanksgiving for life itself. Out of the appreciation of the good we see today, springs the eternal hope of a better tomorrow.

COMPULSORY MILITARY TRAINING

Now that the national elections are behind us, peace-time military training is expected to become an active issue—and a highly controversial one. Army, Navy and civilian leaders favoring such training, feel that the legislation will get a much more favorable public hearing during the hostilities than after peace is won.

One plan, according to Washington observers, will require a year of service from every able-bodied youth upon reaching the age of 18. About a million and a quarter soldiers would be trained yearly, which, added to a projected standing army of 250,000 men, would give the United States a constant army of 1,500,000 men under arms. In times of emergency, however, the size of the army would increase.

Opinion on the advisability of such peace-time training is by no means unanimous. Many people oppose it as a militaristic step contrary to American democratic tradition, while others, who admit the desirability of some training, believe that a physical education and sports program is all that is needed. In support of this view, they point to the record of American youth today, who, prepared with physical education alone, are winning out against the youth of enemy countries, trained for years in military tactics.

They're Arriving in San Diego-

BUT ONLY IN DRIBBLES

SAN DIEGANS have waited long and patiently for Electric Irons. They've borrowed and begged—in many instances their lack has caused real hardship. But relief is in sight. Sometime ago the War Production Board authorized the manufacture of a fairly large number of Electric Irons. Various manufacturers were each allotted a portion of the total with permission to start production being contingent upon the ability to turn out Irons without interfering with War Contracts. Some factories were in position to manufacture immediately, others have been delayed for one cause or another beyond their control. But today, Irons are beginning to arrive in San Diego, simultaneous with their arrival in other cities throughout the country—BUT THEY ARE ARRIVING ONLY IN DRIBBLES.

ALL MAKES IN TIME

Naturally the makes that were able to go into production first will be the first to arrive, but before long you should be able to find all the old familiar names, bearing not only the same old price, but looking as smart and dressy as did the prewar models. But let's remember that the supply will be reaching us ONLY IN DRIBBLES for some time so we'll all want to see that those who so desperately need an Iron have a chance to get one first.

ON TO TOKYO!

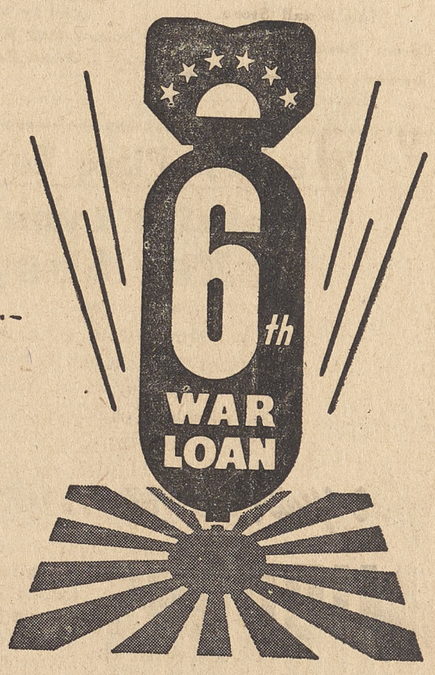

Let's all get behind the greatest march in history—the march to Tokyo—and victory!

On countless invasion fronts, thousands of your fighting men are taking up the battle cry: "On to Tokyo!" We've got to back them up with what it takes for complete victory. Remember, the supply lines in the Pacific are long and your fighting men will need more materiel than was required for the entire European invasion to crush the Jap foe.

Let's Echo that cry with BONDS

Our boys won't quit until they've reached their goal. Let's not stop buying Bonds until we've reached ours! In this 6th War Loan Drive, the Nation's goal is $14 billions... our individual job is to buy at least an extra $100 Bond... another and then another... let's keep on going... let's keep on buying... let's keep on saying it with Bonds... "On to Tokyo!"

Yuletide spirit is with us again! A few of the stores already have their Christmas decorations and window trims in. Dawn Powell gives us "My Home Is Far Away," and it is an eventful and amusing novel of an American family in the years after the turn of the Century. The scene is Ohio; the central characters are members of a delightfully helter-skelter family, the Willards. The adventures of the family, as seen GAL THREE—Ocean Beach News through the eyes of Marcia, the "middle-one" of three daughters, are told in detail, and you'll like the triumphant manner in which she rides over the many trials and tragedies of her happy-go-lucky existence.

GOD IS MY CO-PILOT

By COL. ROBERT L. SCOTT

WNU Features.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I: Scott's early experiences with gliders and airplanes. He goes to Ft. McPherson and enlists in the regular army as a private.

CHAPTER II: Scott wins the West Point competitive exam and gets a furlough before reporting. He is graduated as a second lieutenant of infantry and goes to Europe, which he tours on a motorcycle. He sells his motorcycle and arrives at Randolph Field, Texas.

CHAPTER III: Scott makes his first solo flight. Drives 1,300 miles to Georgia over every week-end to see his girl. Scott is now graduated from Kelly Field and has wings pinned on his chest. Ordered to report to Hawaii but wanting to get married he lays his plight before the General and is ordered to report at Mitchel Field, N. Y., instead.

Getting out with a puzzled expression, I stood aside. First he pointed the tail at me and ran the ship up full gun, blowing Texas dust all over me. Then he took off and came around to land. Three times he did this, each time making me run like hell to get out of the way. Just as I was completely out of breath he landed, looked back at me, and began to taxy in to the hangars—leaving me to the long, hot walk across Randolph Field with the parachute.

I shall never forget the smile he wore as I trudged in past him where he sat smoking a cigar. His look spoke volumes, though he said nothing. I felt good, too, and happy. He could have used no better method to make me relax, to make me feel as though I had actually joined the brotherhood of Air Corps pilots. Next day I soloed again, but definitely remembered to taxy over and take him back to the line with me.

During my flying training, I had girl trouble, too. You would no doubt call it "trouble," but I knew it was the real thing. I had a Chevrolet then, and every week-end I just had to see my girl, even if she did live over thirteen hundred miles away in Georgia. To get to see her, I would drive that thirteen-hundred odd miles to her college or her home in Fort Valley, spend any where from ten minutes to two hours with her, then jump back in the car and drive madly for Texas and the Monday morning flying period. I always had to delay my start until after Saturday morning inspection. That meant that I had to average just about fifty-four miles an hour, even counting the time I saw the girl, in the forty-seven hours that I had from after inspection on Saturday to flying time at eight o'clock Monday mornings!

Week-end after week-end I drove madly across the South from the middle of Texas to the middle of Georgia. On one of these cross-country dashes, I weakened and was fool enough to ask the Commandant of Student Officers if I could go to Atlanta. I can still see and hear Capt. Aubrey Strickland saying, "Atlanta what?" And me meekly replying, "Atlanta, Georgia, Sir." He just said, "Hell, no," and I turned and walked from his office with the good intention of obeying the order.

But within the hour I had weakened. I filled my rumble-seat tank, which held fifty-five gallons of fuel, and was off to see her for the short time available. (Yes, she was, and still is some girl.) On the return trip I burned out two bearings near Patterson, Louisiana. Jimmy Wedell, one of the well-known speed flyers, helped me to get it fixed after I explained the predicament. I was in. But even with five of us working on the number one and number six bearings of the Chevy, I was twelve hours late getting back to Randolph Field.

As I walked into the bachelor officers' quarters that I shared with Bob Terrill, I expected any minute to hear the sad news. But I was too afraid to ask for details, so I just waited for Bob to say, "You are to report to the General tomorrow for court martial for A.W.O.L. in violation of specific instructions." Finally he put down his letter writing, looked at me almost in disgust, and broke out:

"Scott, you are the damned luckiest man that ever lived! You didn't get reported today. No! This is the first time in the history of Randolph Field that it's been too cold to fly. And it wasn't only too cold to fly, it was too cold to have ground school, because the heating system had failed. We haven't flown today, we haven't been to ground school. So they don't even know that you've been over there to see that girl."

In all of these trips to see my girl over in Georgia, I drove 84,000 miles. I wore out two cars—and you'll probably agree that her father had full right to say to her: "Why don't you go on and marry him? It'll be far cheaper than his driving over here every week-end." But I found that I still had some talking to do.

When I had finished Primary and Basic training at Randolph, I almost let down my hair and wept, though, on the day that Commandant of Student Officers called over and said that now I could have permission to go to Georgia, to see my girl. I thanked him and went, but I of course didn't have the heart to tell him that I had been heel enough to go many times before, in secret.

Well, when graduation came at Kelly and I had those wings pinned on my chest, I had the wonderful feeling that I had gone a little way towards the goal I wanted. I was at last an Army pilot. Never did the world seem so good. And then out of a clear sky came orders for me to go to duty in Hawaii. That was pretty bad because I wanted to get married before I went out of the country, and as yet the girl hadn't gotten her degree from college. Probably if I had gone to Hawaii, I would have figured out some way to have flown a P-12 back over every week—but I didn't have to do it after all.

The Chief of the Air Corps came down a few days later and I waited until he had had lunch in the Officers' Mess. Then I walked over and said, "General, can I ask you a question?" "Sure, sit down," he said, and I told him the whole story—and I made it like this: "General, I know that I'm supposed to go where I'm sent because I'm in the Army, but I've got a girl over in Georgia, and I think I can do a lot better job wherever you send me if you can give me time to talk her into marrying me." He didn't appear to be very impressed at first, but he took my name and serial number, and two or three days later, when he got back to Washington, I was ordered to Mitchel Field, New York.

As I drove my car towards my first tactical assignment I kept reaching up to feel my silver wings on my chest—I wanted to prove that it wasn't a dream. This was what I had been working for since 1920. Now I was actually riding towards the glory of tactical Army aviation.

I recall that I had just about completed the trip to Long Island, when something happened that will keep me remembering the fall of 1933.

Just before I reached the Holland Tunnel, I was suddenly forced to the curb by three cars all bristling with sawed-off shotguns and Tommy-guns. I jumped out pretty mad, but saw that many guns were covering me and that it was the police. They looked at my papers, but said anyone could have mimeographed orders. They searched the car and me, took down the Texas license number, and even copied the engine number. All the time I tried to talk with the flashlights in my eyes.

It took them thirty minutes to find out that the mere fact that I was traveling in a car with a Western license plate didn't make me Pretty Boy Floyd, who they said was on the prowl in that area. I finally had to telephone the Commanding Officer of Mitchel Field, and as he didn't know me, all he could say was that an officer by the name of Lieutenant Scott was supposed to be on the way to Mitchel from Kelly. Anyway, I still don't think I looked—even then—like Pretty Boy Floyd.

My arrival at my new station was the start of a hectic time for the Air Corps. First I began to try to work in some flying time by volunteering for every flight I could get. I had an especially good break when I got on the Department of Commerce weather flights. I used to have to get up at two o'clock in the morning and take off—no matter what the weather was — at 2:45 a. m.

On one of these I found myself in quite a bit of trouble. As soon as I took off I went on to instrument flying and climbed up through the heavy clouds in the Curtiss Falcon—known then as an O-39. Out to the side, fastened to the "N" struts, I could dimly see the barometrograph which was to record the changing weather as we climbed to as high as the ship would go. It was necessary to climb at a constant three hundred feet a minute, which in several thousand feet became fairly monotonous. I finally adjusted the stabilizer so that the ship would climb this altitude, and then all I had to do was to keep the wings straight and level with the turn and bank indicator and the course constant with the gyro.

But I had reckoned without real knowledge of flying. My first indication of trouble came at some seventy-five hundred feet, when I was surprised to see the reflection of the moon down directly beneath my ship. I then forgot all caution and tried to fly partly on instruments and partly by visual reference. This I learned pretty soon was about impossible, for I went into the nicest spin I have ever seen. Recovering about four thousand feet below, I tried it again but the same thing happened. I then realized that after I had set my stabilizer for the steady climb of three hundred feet per minute, as the fuel was used the weight of the ship decreased and the nose went up, for the fuel was of course forward. This gradually precipitated a stall which turned into a spin as the big Conqueror twisted the fuselage from propeller torque. I had to resolve to do all my instrument flying by hand until the automatic pilots were perfected later.

No Change in Regulations On Sport Fishing

Hastening to correct an impression gained by some San Diego fishermen from previously printed accounts, the office of the captain of the Port at the Coast Guard operating base here announced today that no change has been made in the ruling prohibiting sport fishing vessels from entering or leaving San Diego harbor.

In a recent revision of West Coast fishing regulations, sport fishing vessels operating out of Newport harbor, Santa Monica and Redondo Beach were ordered to return to those harbors not later than one half hour after sunset of the day of departure.

The ruling does not apply to San Diego said Lt. Comdr. Chas. H. Forward, captain of the Port, as no vessels carrying passengers for hire for fishing purposes may enter or leave the local harbor.

The change in regulations does not affect commercial fishing craft operating out of San Diego. All fishing vessels are prohibited from operating in the bay during the hours of darkness.

THREE OCEAN BEACH MEN ASSIST IN DEDICATION OF PACIFIC BEACH CHURCH

Dr. Myron Insko, of Ocean Beach, head of the Goodwill Industries in San Diego, and Dr. F. R. Felt, also of Ocean Beach, were two of the speakers at the dedication of the Wee Kirk By-the-Sea church in Pacific Beach Sunday. Nels I Berge, master of Pt. Loma Lodge of Masons, was another speaker. Rev. H. A. McPheeters, a former pastor of Pt. Loma Methodist church, is the pastor of the new church.

The Wee Kirk, which was founded by Mr. and Mrs. McPheeters early in 1943, grew until the present sanctuary was started near the end of the year. The church building was designed by Sam W. Hammill and erected under the supervision of Mr. McPheeters, with the assistance of voluntary workers.

The building is of old English architecture with buttressed walls and recessed windows, giving an appearance of heavy masonry. Imported cathedral glass windows finish off the design.

A surfaced play court at one end of the church yard provides adequate grounds for outdoor recreation. This court is the site of the Wee Kirk's future main chapel which will be connected by a wing, and the present structure will be used for church school meetings.

Ocean Beach Camp and Hospital

By ONA E. PEACOCK
Phone B-5639

Miss Nye of Red Cross Camp and Hospital told me today that Christmas cards and more Christmas cards are needed. Please send them into Red Cross, no matter through what channel you send them. It does seem odd that we have to make such an urgent appeal to the people for articles to make as happy a Christmas as possible for those sick boys. They have given so much, legs, arms, eyes, and to think the Red Cross has to beg for little comforts for them. A few Christmas cards, tree decorations, small presents for their boxes, a dozen cookies now and then, a good book or magazine—such articles are so little to give when we know these men have given so much.

This week I wanted a baby blanket to round out a layette we were making and found it at the Omega Button Covering Shop on Bacon st. I feel every mother of small children should know about this store. Prices are more reasonable than in San Diego and it is the kind of a shop Ocean Beach needs.

The Center has many pretty aprons, pillow tops, laundry bags, pot holders, etc. The proceeds go for articles to put in the Christmas boxes for the servicemen. Come up and see them and don't forget cookies every Wednesday.

All cards and boxes must be ready by December 1. Please get your articles in that you want us to pack or get a box from us. We have them at two cents each.

If you have belt buckles, men's or women's, bring them in as they are badly needed by the "Craft" department. Anyone who has work out from this Center bring it in and you will be given credit for it.

JUDGE RULES IN FAVOR OF LOCAL LANDLORD

Judge A. F. Molina, in municipal court Saturday, ruled in favor of B. B. Boyd, owner of a residence at 1979 Bacon st., declaring that Boyd did not violate the OPA rental ceiling in charging Hugh D. Field and Mary Field $35 a month rent, when the listed price was $25 a month. The report showed that Boyd had given his tenant two receipts a month, one for $25 for house rent and one of $10 a month for use of a washing machine and refrigerator. The court granted a non-suit and dismissed the action after a jury had been selected. Plaintiffs had asked $750 and attorneys fees.

Add salt to the water in which eggs are to be cooked. This makes the shells more brittle and easier to remove.

If there is a suggestion of rust on your refrigerator shelves, wash them with a mild scouring powder and hot water, dry well with a soft clean cloth, and apply a thin coating of hot melted paraffin.

When sending a book through the mails, cut the corners from several heavy envelopes and place over the four corners of the book to protect them.

Wax your book shelves. This will permit books to slide in and out easier and cause less wear on them.

If candles are soiled, rub them with a cloth dipped in alcohol. Or they may be rubbed with lard or other fats.

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

Election Result:

FDR Victory As Dems Gain In Congress

Sweeping into office many senators, representatives and governors, favorable to President Roosevelt's foreign policy, the Democrat's presidential and vice presidential candidates received a total of 413 electoral votes, or 36 less than received in 1940.

While President Roosevelt's vote was less than in 1940, he will have with him a far more friendly congress than has been true for several years.

GAIN GOVERNORSHIPS

Unless late servicemen votes change the picture, which is not considered likely, the Democrats will have a total of 25 governors to 23 for the Republicans, as against the previous lineup of 26 Republicans and 22 Democrats. Republican executives were defeated in Ohio, Massachusetts, Missouri, Idaho and Washington. The Republicans captured the governorship in Indiana and North Dakota from the Democrats. It is possible that the 15,000 servicemen votes in Utah may change the present line-up.

Chaucer Talk

According to a survey made by Lester V. Berrey and published by the Columbia University Press, Americans living in the Southern Appalachian and Ozark mountains use figures of speech much like those of characters from Chaucer's Canterbury Tales (14th century). Moreover, they pronounce words as in the days of Alexander Pope and William Shakespeare.

These Americans, for example, say a thing "admires" them when they mean it astonishes them, and their pronouncing peculiarities include: "jine" for join, "bile" for boil, and "sallet" for salad.

Jones Found There Were Not Enough Comers-In!

Jones decided to enter business, and so he bought an establishment from an agent.

After some months he failed, and, meeting the agent some time later, he said: "Do you remember selling me a business a few months ago?"

"Yes," replied the agent. "But what's the trouble? Isn't it as I represented it to be?"

"Oh, yes," said the other. "You said it was in a busy locality where there were plenty of passers-by."

"Well!" queried the agent. "What's wrong with that?"

"There were too many passers-by."

Smartly Curtaining Your French Doors

HOW to make French door curtains harmonize with the window treatment in a room is a question that always arises. Frequently, over-draperies are omitted for the doors even though they are used for windows. The same glass curtain material is then used as for the windows but a heading

Either a wooden or a metal rod extending well beyond the sides of the door frame may be hooked in place as shown here in the diagram. This permits the doors to open without interfering with draperies.

NOTE—This sketch is from a new booklet by Mrs. Spears called MAKE YOUR OWN CURTAINS. This 32-page book is full of smart new curtain and drapery ideas with illustrated step-by-step directions for measuring, cutting, making and hanging all types from the simplest sash curtain to the most complicated lined over-drapery or stiffened valance. Lamb fat has a strong flavor, hence it is best to use it sparingly or in combination with other fats. It is good for browning potatoes.

Causes Burns

Improper handling of cooking utensils causes many burns. A report from an Illinois county shows that a burn to one homemaker could have been avoided by turning the handle of a utensil, filled with boiling water, in toward the stove in place of out. The preventable burn resulted in four weeks' absence from housework and two additional weeks with limited efficiency at work.

Means Muskmelons

The word cantaloup is sometimes used to refer to muskmelons, but the cantaloup is a particular variety with a hard scaly or warty rind and seldom grown in this country.

Shallow Cultivation

Cultivation should be shallow to kill the weeds when they are small. This is best done with a scuffle hoe, or wheel hoe with scuffle attachments, which work the top layer of soil, getting the little weeds and not injuring the roots of the crop plants. This saves much hand weeding along the rows, because the little fellows are killed by slight covering with soil.

Rehearsing for Normandy

Last winter in England, 3,000 inhabitants of eight villages and 180 farms, occupying 25 square miles in South Devon, complied with the request of their government to move away so that American troops could use the area for six months as a training ground for the invasion of France, says Collier's.

As these "Normandy rehearsals" were live-ammunition battles, most of the houses, churches, shops and farm lands in the area are so wrecked that it may take years for the returning inhabitants to restore them to anything like their original condition.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Nearly 2,000 rubber tires daily were required in North Africa to replace tires which had been worn out or destroyed in action.

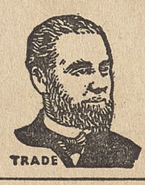

As a result of the diversion of the petroleum by-product to aviation gasoline, about 50 per cent of the butadiene produced for synthetic rubber processing so far in 1944 came from alcohol plants.

When you wonder about the shortage of civilian tires, bear in mind that in the time it takes to build one 56-inch airplane tire at B. F. Goodrich factories, seven 8.25-20 truck tires or sixty 6.00:16 passenger tires could be made. And airplane tires are "musts" these days!

OCEAN BEACH SCHOOL NEWS

The Kindergarten children went to the store Tuesday, Nov. 21, to buy apples. On the next day, they made apple sauce, symbolic of a Thanksgiving feast. Each child had an opportunity to help prepare the apples and thus start out their cooking career. Mothers of the kindergarten children met to see the children do rhythms and to hear them sing. The songs and rhythms presented were: "Wooden Soldiers, Jacc-in-the-Box and Sail Boat." Mothers and friends attending were: Mesdames T. Arnold, S. M. Ware, E. Holt, C. H. Burns, L. O. Cranston, L. M. Lorton, M. G. Torbelt, L. C. Fisher, E. C. Generas, M. Long, B. Duffy, J. C. Partch, W. E. Harris, M. Jasper, J. B. Leach, W. D. Ingram, H. E. Warkentine, R Whistler, W. H. Rumbaugh, W. C Kelly, R. The children were made conscious of the Sixth War Loan drive by various school activities. One activity was the writing of "pep" talks and poems and reports on historic Americans. As a result, this week's sales amounted to $469.15.

KIWANIANNES MEET AT LA JOLLA TUESDAY NIGHT IN NOVEMBER SESSION

Twenty-five Kiwaniannes drove to La Jolla Tuesday evening for a dinner meeting at the Casa de Manana. The guests were seated at one long table decorated in Thanksgiving colors and flowers and lighted candles. Following the dinner the women met in a group in the lounge and a short business session was held. Money was donated for cakes for the local U. S. O. Mrs. H. H. Hartvigsen gave a report of a visit she had made to the Vaulain Home for invalid children and the donated articles she had received from this club. Plans were made and a committee appointed to arrange for a Christmas party to be held in December. On the committee are Mrs. Jerry Sullivan, Mrs. Glen Jones, Mrs. Harry Masters and Mrs. John Loftus.

County's Tax Rate Lowest in Six-Year Period

San Diego county's $1.72 county tax rate for general purposes this year is the lowest rate the county has levied during the six-year period 1939-40 to 1944-45, California Taxpayers' association stated today, making public its analysis of the trend of county tax rates since World War II started.

In 1939-40, the first year of the period under discussion, the county rate for general purposes was $2.105 per $100 of assessed valuation. High point for the six year period was in 1939-40.

For the six years, the county rate for general purposes has been as follows:

1939-40	$2.105
1940-41	2.06
1941-42	2.02
1942-43	1.93
1943-44	1.77
1944-45	1.72

Four California counties, Colusa, Los Angeles, Placer, and San Diego, have had a decrease in county tax rate for general purposes during every year of this period. Three counties, Fresno, Orange, and Sacramento, have shown no increases, remaining unchanged or going down every year. Four counties, Contra Costa, Kern, Modoc, and Ventura, went down every year until 1944-45, when they went up. Not a single county showed an increase every year. Orange and Plumas counties have shown no change in their rates for the past three years.

This year, 24 California counties show their lowest county tax rate for general purposes during the last six years, the association found. These counties are Alameda, Alpine, Amador, Butte, Colusa, Fresno, Glenn, Humboldt, Lassen, Los Angeles, Madera, Mendocino, Napa, Nevada, Orange, Placer, Plumas, Riverside, Sacramento, San Diego, San Joaquin, Siskiyou, Tehama, and Tuolumne.

"Most county taxpayers are better off this year than they were just a few years ago," the Taxpayers' association said. "In most places, they have had reductions in county tax rates for several years. They are considerably better off than in 1941-42.

"The gains, however, only point to the need for continued taxpayer watchfulness of their county and other local governments in the months just ahead.

"As the war draws to a close, there will be need for alert, informed, and active citizens and citizen organizations to be on the job, seeking ways to do necessary things more efficiently and economically, resisting unnecessary spending and gearing sound governmental operations to an expanding economy of private enterprise."

Royal Neighbors Entertain 125 at Joint Meeting

The members of Ann Cordingly Camp No. 10665 of the Royal Neighbors of America, Ocean Beach, were hostesses to a large joint meeting of the Royal Neighbors camps of San Diego county, at the Women's clubhouse on Bacon St., Friday evening. Approximately 125 women attended and there were eight condidates initiated into membership. Of the eight, six were from Ocean Beach. They are Mesdames Jeane Cunningham, Delores Brame, Katherine Rigg, Anna Neujahr, Christina Binau and Grace Jacks. Mrs. Grace Rippee, oracle of the local camp, presided at the initiation and was assisted by the supreme state supervisor, Mrs. Christina Hammell of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Hammell also was the main speaker of the evening. Another honored guest was Enid Markham of San Diego, the state deputy.

The entertainment program featured solos by Mrs. Lillian Dobbs, Ocean Beach musician, on the solovox. Neighbor Farrell, a visitor from Los Angeles, favored the group with a humorous Irish vocal solo.

The Ocean Beach women also served refreshments to the large group.

CHRISTMAS BOXES FOR NAVAL HOSPITAL TO BE DELIVERED BY DEC. 15

A few empty boxes remain for those who would like to help with this worthy cause by filling them and thereby provide Yuletide cheer for the servicemen in the hospital.
